BUILD A PUBLIC SERVICE CAREER

By enrolling in one of these correspondence courses:

The Technique of Municipal Administration — a course in management methods prepared especially for the chief administrator.

Municipal Finance Administration — gives basic knowledge necessary to the intelligent planning and control of revenues and expenditures.

Municipal Police Administration — points the way to sound management and control of police activities in the light of the new sociological approach.

The American City and Its Government — a course designed to give the broad background of city government and city life essential to a successful administrator.

Local Planning Administration — general administrator and city planner alike will profit from this presentation of advanced methods in a field that is becoming increasingly important to the well-being of American communities.

Municipal Personnel Administration — indicates in detail the basic techniques in personnel work and shows how they are related to the objectives of administration.

Municipal Public Works Administration — provides a working knowledge of organization principles and practices peculiar to the various public works activities.

Municipal Fire Administration — discusses factors to be considered in administration of a department and shows relation of underwriters' requirements to fire protection.

Municipal Recreation Administration— discusses activities, necessary facilities, organization, financing, and other administrative problems.

Local Welfare Administration—a course not for case workers but for administrators. Analyzes problems and points out the best administrative principles and devices that have been tested by practice.

Special texts have been prepared for administrators on the job, and the principles, techniques, and procedures set forth in these texts have been tested and proved in the field. Lesson assignments and questions are carefully designed to apply the text materials to your own local problems. Lesson papers are reviewed by leading authorities in each field. The $35 fee for each course covers the text, individualized lesson instruction, and the certificate to those who satisfactorily complete the work.

The texts alone sell for $7.50 per copy — $65 for a complete set. For use in group training projects, in lots of five or more copies, the price is $6.00 per copy.

There are now more than 600 public officials enrolled in one or more of these courses in nearly 300 cities in 41 states and 8 foreign countries.
